Biographical / Historical

Ralph Winston Morris was born on January 19, 1941 in Barnwell, South Carolina. Like his father, Morris preferred to go by his middle name "Winston". From an early age, music played an important role in Morris's life. He started piano in the second grade and by 8th grade had learned many brass instruments like trumpet and sousaphone. Morris attended Barnwell High School and graduated in 1959. While in high school, Morris and his friends formed a group called the Kool Kubes, a small band that performed Dixieland-style music for local events. Morris entered East Carolina University in the fall of 1959. In 1962, he graduated with his B.S. in Music education. Morris entered Indiana State University for his graduate studies under William Bell, the leading tuba professor at the time, in 1964. He left Indiana State in January 1966 and got a position at Mansfield State College, he left this position and returned to Indiana State in the fall of 1966 due to a change in his job description. Morris continued his studies with William Bell until 1967 when he was hired by Dr. James Wattenbarger to teach tuba and euphonium, as well as other courses at Tennessee Tech University. Morris never completed his doctorate despite only having about 18 hours of course work left to complete. Instead he chose to focus on his students and on building his studio at TTU. Morris retired from Tennessee Tech University in 2022

Throughout his 55 years at Tennessee Tech University, Winston Morris has become the leading authority on tuba literature and one of the founding fathers of the Tubist Universal Brotherhood Association. Morris is also acknowledged worldwide for the development of the tuba ensemble. Morris has many accomplishments, including: being the senior editor for the Tuba Source Book, conductor of the Tennessee Tech Tuba Euphonium ensemble, symphonia, co-founder of the new tuba jazz ensemble "the MJT project", and has achieved many awards. Most notably, Morris holds the Guinness world record for the largest collection of tuba-related items.

Winston Morris married Bobbie Linder on June 2, 1961. They had two daughters together: Maria Ann and Shelia Renee.
